Woman escapes forced prostitution

Gatineau. Suspect has been linked to street gangs

Gatineau police have arrested a 29-year-old man who allegedly held a woman hostage for nearly three weeks and forced her into prostitution.

The woman was able to escape and go to Gatineau police for help.

Gatineau police spokesman Pierre Lanthier said the woman did not know her captor.

The arrest was made Monday just before 5:30 p.m. in a Loblaws parking lot located at 1 Du Plateau Blvd.

Police then searched the suspect's apartment on Bruxelles's Road in Gatineau where Lanthier said several items were seized.

"We found clothes, papers and other items that will relate the victim to the suspect," Lanthier added.

Although the suspect is known to police and has been linked to Gatineau street gangs in the past, police say they are not convinced this incident is gang-related.

The suspect was scheduled to appear in Gatineau court on Tuesday.

Jean Mary Giscard Bain, 29 is charged with forcibly procuring someone into prostitution and uttering death threats.

SCORCHED EARTH

Firefighters carry hoses back to their trucks after dousing a brush fire that broke out on Tuesday. Firefighters arrived quickly and put out the fire that broke out near Riverside Drive just south of Highway 417. Only about two acres burned, but the winds and dry conditions meant the blaze had potential to spread, said district fire Chief Dennis Dale. "If we hadn't have gotten to this in time, it would be moving down the street," he said. "There was a little luck involved." JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Hélène's mission gets boost from feds

Hélène Campbell embraces her grandmother Mary Campbell after a press conference Tuesday inside the Government Conference Centre in Ottawa. Federal Health Minister Leona Aglukkaq and MP Pierre Poilievre joined Campbell and her family to announce a $10-million commitment from the federal government to support the national transplant-research program to increase donations.

Speaking publicly for the first time in Ottawa since she got her new lungs in Toronto, Hélène Campbell, 21, told local media Tuesday that she feels "great," but her advocacy mission is not done. She said she has already started writing a book about her experience and wants to continue raising awareness about organ donation.

One-for-one offer. Got Hoedown tickets? Bowmanville-based Boots and Hearts festival says it will accept them

jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Organizers of the Boots and Hearts festival in Bowmanville, Ont., are offering free tickets to country-music fans with tickets to Ottawa's now-defunct Capital Hoedown.

"Our intention, our heart, is make sure they have an opportunity to see a show, experience it, when they weren't able to get their money back," said Shannon McNeven, executive director of Boots and Hearts' production company Republic Live.

The festival at the Canadian Tire Motorsport Park in Bowmanville runs Aug. 10 to 12 — the same days Capital

How to participate

To take part in the swap, go to bootsandhearts.com/ticket-exchange.

- Boots and Hearts is charging a $10 processing fee, but will not be collecting any other money as part of the exchange.

Hoedown was scheduled. The lineup includes Tim McGraw, Kid Rock, Carrie Underwood and Lionel Richie — as well as Sheryl Crow and Terri Clark, who had been scheduled to perform at Capital Hoedown.

"It's pretty beautiful and it's 750 acres, so we have wide arms to welcome people," said McNeven.

The ticket exchange will not prohibit ticket holders from trying to get their money back, said McNeven.

Massage helps pets cool off during heat wave

The strangest animal Sandy Benoit has given a massage to has got to be a colourful macaw parrot that just wouldn't sit still.

Add to that her work on a bearded dragon, horses, rabbits, cats and dogs (of course) and you've got a good idea what it's like working as an animal massage therapist.

Laden with fur or feathers, our pets are having an even harder time with the heat than we are, and Benoit says a soothing massage can help them relax and cool off.

"Just by putting your hand under his paw, you can feel the heat," said Benoit, holding the paw of her seeing-eye dog Mr. O, a black Labrador retriever.

"I like to apply a cold bandana, and just by stroking the animal they begin cooling down. Then I'll work on their cranium."

Moving from their head down through the spine, Benoit said she works through the central nervous system, massaging the entire body to promote healing at her business Canine Touch & Tell in the west end.

"It's amazing what it can do," Benoit said of animal massage therapy.

"It increases circulation, combats arthritis, hip dysplasia, rids older dogs of lactic acid buildup and can help heal sports dogs that are always on the go."

Again! Another brazen mass shooting shocks T.O.

Two dead, 21 sent to hospital. Horror comes to a crowded block party just weeks after Eaton Centre shooting left the city reeling

A mass shooting left Canada's biggest city in shock Tuesday. The searing hail of bullets at a Toronto neighbourhood block party killed two people and sent 21 others to hospital, including a 22-month-old toddler.

One of the two people killed was identified as 14-year-old Shyanne Charles of Toronto.

Police say it's the worst gun violence in the city's recent history — and they believe it was gang related.

More grimly, they suspect deadly retaliation to take place and were sending reinforcements to the racially diverse area Tuesday.

night when gunmen sprayed the crowd with bullets.

Tears shone in one man's eyes as he said: "I saw people running, I heard 'crack, crack' and I hit the ground."

"It was like a Quentin Tarantino movie."

Mayor Rob Ford called it a "horrible tragedy" but added: "I know this is the safest city in the world. I've always said that, I truly believe it."

Police Chief Bill Blair said police have received "some co-operation" from witnesses, and called on all community members who attended the party to help with the investigation.

Messages of grief quickly appeared on social media.

"The hood gained another angel to look over us, RIP," one person wrote on Twitter.

Activists angered. Scout leaders in U.S. refuse to drop ban on gays

After a confidential two-year review, the Boy Scouts of America on Tuesday emphatically reaffirmed its policy of excluding gays.

The Scouts cited support from parents as a key reason for keeping the policy and expressed hope the prolonged debate over it might subside.

Bitter reactions from gay-rights activists suggested that was unlikely.

The Scouts' national spokesperson, Deron Smith, said an 11-member special committee decided the exclusion policy "is absolutely the best policy" for the 112-year-old organization.

The Scouts' chief executive, Bob Mazduca, contended most Scout families support the policy, which applies to both adult leaders and Scouts.

But the president of the largest U.S. gay-rights group, Chad Griffin of the Human Rights Campaign, called the Scouts' decision "a missed opportunity of colossal proportions."

"With the country moving toward inclusion, the leaders of the Boy Scouts of America have instead sent a message to young people that only some of them are valued," he said.

"They've chosen to teach division and intolerance."

One ongoing protest campaign involves Jennifer Tyrrell, the Ohio mother of a seven-year-old Cub Scout who was ousted as a den mother because she is lesbian.

A report says more than 300,000 people have signed a petition urging the Scouts to reinstate Tyrrell.

Border agents outraged by bomb-threat claim

Ambassador Bridge closed. Firm that owns it implies anger over job cuts was to blame

Allegations that disgruntled Canadian border agents may have been behind a bogus bomb threat have outraged their union.

The bomb threat forced Canadian and U.S. authorities to close the Ambassador Bridge for several hours.

But the allegations are

"baseless," union leaders said Tuesday.

The bomb threat, the second in recent days, was called in around 7:20 p.m. Monday to authorities on the U.S. side of the bridge that links Detroit with Windsor.

In a news release, the Detroit International Bridge Company, which owns the Ambassador Bridge, said it suspected the bomb threat had "something to do" with announced job cuts at Canada Border Services Agency.

"We cannot confirm, but suspect, that this has something to do with Canada's disinvestment at the border by cutting back on customs agents," said the statement.

Jason McMichael, vice-president of the Customs and Immigration Union, said he was outraged at the allegations.

"Certainly they were completely baseless, completely without merit and the members that I represent who work for the Canada Border Services Agency all across the country were insulted by them," he said from Ottawa.

Suicide in Ottawa

Appeal court says no to ex-nurse

A Minnesota appeal court has upheld the conviction of a former U.S. nurse who gave a young Canadian woman and a British man instructions on how to kill themselves.

The woman was 18-year-old university student Nadia Kajouji, of Brampton, Ont., who jumped into a frozen Ottawa river in 2008.

William Melchert-Dinkel, 49, of Faribault, scanned on-line chat rooms for suicidal people, the evidence shows.

He has argued he merely exercised his right to free speech.

Melchert-Dinkel was convicted last year of two counts of aiding suicide. He was sentenced to more than six years in prison but the terms of his parole meant he would only be imprisoned for about a year. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Canadian credit card users may face higher costs

Extra fees. Canadian retailers currently absorbing transaction charges when customers use their Visa or MasterCard merchants thrust the debate back into the spotlight in Canada.

The two credit card companies, as well as several major banks, reached an agreement to pay U.S. retailers at least $6 billion US to settle a long-running lawsuit that alleged the card issuers conspired to fix the fees that stores pay to accept credit cards.

The Canadian Federation of Independent Business (CFIB), which has more than 100,000 member businesses across Canada, is calling for changes to the federally regulated code of conduct that would allow retailers more rights, including the ability to make credit card users pay a surcharge or refuse credit cards at their stores.

The CFIB wants merchants to have the ability to add surcharges on credit card users that would counteract the transaction fees charged by some credit card companies

Competition Bureau

- The Competition Bureau argues that restrictive contracts by Visa and MasterCard allow the two credit card companies — which represent 92 per cent of the market — to essentially dictate terms to merchants.
- The tribunal has the power to force credit card companies to change their operations, but it cannot levy a monetary penalty in the case. A decision is expected later this year.

Currently Visa and MasterCard rules state that merchants cannot levy any surcharges on credit card users, forcing retailers to absorb the cost of usage themselves.

Debt. Higher interest rate would be trouble for many Canadians: Survey

By the numbers

48%

48 per cent of the 1,000 Canadians sampled for the CICA survey said a significant rate hike would make it difficult for them to keep up with payments.

Canadians who are worried about the amount of interest they pay for borrowing money could be relieved to hear the central bank decided Tuesday to keep its benchmark rate at a relatively low level of one per cent until at least the fall.

But a recent survey, which found a significant interest rate hike would pose a challenge to nearly half of those polled, highlights the need for better financial literacy.

"Canadians need to take control of their financial situations," said Nicholas Cheung of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, which sponsored the poll.

"They need to make decisions in their own best interests, and by taking this control they will be stronger financially."

Of the 1,000 Canadians randomly sampled by Harris Decima via telephone, 48 per cent of them said a significant interest rate hike would make it difficult for them to keep up with mortgage or debt payments.

The study came out as the Bank of Canada announced Tuesday that it will keep its key interest rates low at least until the next policy meeting in September.

The survey, commissioned by the CICA, found that roughly 60 per cent of those surveyed save less than 10 per cent of their monthly income. WTHE CANADIAN PRESS people get offended, we're talking high-quality dog food.)

Back in the dietary Dark Ages, I literally grew up on the stuff and its legion of imitators (Spork, etc.). The gelatinous goop that came with it made me gag, but vapourized nicely when the Spam was fried, and fried Spam and fried eggs with fried potatoes was a common staple, along with anything else that could be fried.

Too often around our house, it resembled that legendary Monty Python sketch set at the Green Midget Café, where all the dishes came with Spam (e.g. Spam, Spam, Spam, Spam, egg and Spam), prompting an outraged customer to ask: "Don't you have anything without Spam in it?" while a band of Vikings belted out a rousing chorus of "Spam! Spam! Spam! Wonderful Spam!"

Made from ...
"Of course, classic Spam is allegedly composed of pork shoulder and ham, heavy on the shoulder, light on the ham."

Not sure how the Vikings ended up in a sketch about Spam.... Oh, those Monty Python guys.

If you have a tender tummy, you might want to skip over this next bit. Spam now comes in 13 varieties, including jalapeno, cheese, hickory smoke and, for a limited time (to celebrate the Broadway opening of Spamalot), golden honey grail and stinky French garlic.

Of course, classic Spam is allegedly composed of pork shoulder and ham, heavy on the shoulder, light on the ham. It was launched to a hungry, Depression-rattled nation on July 5, 1937, and since then more cans of Spam have been sold than there are people on Earth. That's a lot, more than seven billion and counting. If you slice it thin, you can feed a horde of Vikings on a single can, which retails for an average price of $2.97. Just add Kraft Dinner, spread ketchup over the whole thing and bon appétit!

While fastidious vegan locavores may turn up their noses, people in Guam can't get enough Spam, consuming more than 16 cans per person per year, according to that estimable journal of record, Time magazine. Sadly, 60 per cent of deaths in Guam are directly attributable to poor diet and lifestyle. Score one for fastidious vegan locavores.

For those who can't get enough of this stuff, there's the annual Spam Jam in Honolulu, another Spam hotspot. The 10th annual edition was held on April 28, where aficionados chowed down on Spam-fried rice loco moco or Spam nachos at Jimmy Buffett's.

Hey, it's a lifestyle. Just not a long one.

Spam, the often-maligned classic canned lunch meat, fits deliciously into frugal grocery budgets. DAVID MCNEW/GETTY IMAGES

Simpsons coming to Springfield?

A businessman in Springfield, Ore., says it's time for the city to embrace its most famous fictional residents and create a shopping district with a Simpsons theme. Jack Koehler owns Sweetie's Frozen Yogurt, and he says business has been up since he put a set of Simpson statues in front of his store. He thinks the city should get involved, and he's proposing that a few blocks of downtown Springfield be turned into a Simpsons-themed shopping district. The city's community relations manager, Niel Laudati, tells KVAL there's no demand from the public, and he doubts anyone wants to spend tax dollars to license cartoon characters.

The best and worst of Batman

Dark Knight on the rise. It hasn't always been box office brilliance as Metro looks at the Caped Crusader's past

Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

Sometimes even villains get a second chance. The Dark Knight Rises, the last entry in Christopher Nolan's epic Batman trilogy, digs deep into Caped Crusader lore to reintroduce brawny bad guy Bane.

The abnormally strong antihero first appeared in the comics in 1993 but after a ridiculous appearance in Batman & Robin earned the title as the worst onscreen Batman baddie. As a scrawny convict pumped up by a drug known as Venom, he did little except growl and act as the punch line for a bad joke by his creator Dr. Jason Woodrue. "I call this little number Bane," he says. "Bane of humanity!"

The movie killed the Batman franchise for seven years, and it looked like Bane, played by wrestler Jeep Swenson — Holy haberdashery, Batman who chose his bad lucka libre mask? — would also be relegated to the big scoundrel cemetery in the Sky.

Then Nolan cast Tom Hardy, got rid of the ridiculous mask and gave the brute a second chance. So Bane is back and super-evil, but how do other Batman big-screen baddies stack up on the Bat-scale of finest to vilest?

The Bat's Best

Cesar Romero and Jack Nicholson both played The Joker, Batman's arch nemesis, but Heath Ledger's Oscar-winning take on the psychotic clown in The Dark Knight is the most menacingly memorable.

Burgess Meredith made The Penguin's trademark squawking voice popular, but it was Danny DeVito in Batman Returns who really showed what a megalomaniacal monster he really was.

"You're just jealous because I'm a genuine freak and you have to wear a mask," he said. Batman has battled plenty of female foes but feline fiend Catwoman is the pick of the litter. Whether it's Lee Meriwether meowing, "You're going to see the purr-fect crime, when I get Batman in my claws," or Michelle Pfeiffer wielding a 12-foot bullwhip, the creepy kitty is fun enough for nine lifetimes.

The Winged-One's Worst:

Too many one-liners from Two-Face in Batman Forever left critics unable to turn the other cheek after Tommy Lee Jones's over-the-top performance.

As played by Uma Thurman in Batman & Robin botanist-turned-eco-terrorist Poison Ivy proved that not even Mother Nature gets it right every time.

If for no other reason than the joke "Ice to see you!" Batman & Robin's cold-blooded killer Mr. Freeze (Arnold Schwarzenegger) makes the worst-of list. The Governorator should've been sent to the cooler for his line-readings in this one.

Ivy proved to be onscreen poison. HANDOUT/WARNER BROTHERS

Silverman saving Obama through sexual favours?

THE WORD

Monica Weymouth

Plenty of celebrities are hosting fundraising events for the Obama campaign, from Sarah Jessica Parker's swanky A-list party at her New York City apartment to Gwen Stefani's upcoming family picnic in Los Angeles. But only Sarah Silverman has offered sexual favours in exchange for campaign contributions.

In a short video titled An Indecent Proposal, Silverman — in her trademark cereal-stained hoodie and last-night's ponytail — attempts to persuade billionaire casino magnate Sheldon Adelson to cancel his $100 million check to Mitt Romney.

"If you give that $100 million to Obama instead of Romney, I will — well, I won't have sex with you because we're not married and I'm a nice girl, but I will 'scissor' you wearing a bikini bottom through to fruition," she says.

"You'll be the only elderly billionaire on the block to have traditional lesbian sex through to climax with a girl who had her own show on Comedy Central."

Like all Sarah Silverman skits, it's probably funny if you can keep your eyes open — but we're not risking it.

Braison's dad, Billy Ray Cyrus, thanked the hospital staff for helping — but not for posting a gruesome photo of his son sitting up in his hospital bed holding a bloody bucket he'd been coughing into.

New Yorkers embracing ferry life

More than one million passengers have ridden ferries across the East River since the service was launched just over one year ago, New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg said Monday. That's more than double in initial projection of 409,000 riders, Bloomberg said as he and City Council Speaker Christine Quinn rode the ferry from North Williamsburg in Brooklyn to Pier 11 in lower Manhattan to mark the milestone. The ferries, which make it fast and easy to reach waterfront businesses, parks and other locations, are popular with tourists as well as locals.

Hudson River Park: A destination for recreation

Urban oasis. A group of dedicated New Yorkers have turned a once-derelict patch of Manhattan into a place for outdoor fun

In the past decade, the decrepit piers and industrial zones along eight kilometres of the Hudson River on Manhattan's West Side have been utterly transformed.

Hudson River Park is now a destination that gets 17 million visits annually, with a bike path, green spaces, playgrounds and recreation ranging from mini-golf and skateboarding to kayaking and even stand-up paddleboarding. Melissa Lopez rented a bike a few weeks ago and was amazed at what she saw as she rode downtown through the park.

"It was gorgeous, like a little nature haven, beautiful flowers, trees, and only when you looked over to your left (at the buildings), did you realize you were in between a concrete jungle and this beautiful river," said Lopez, 29, who came in from her home in suburban Westchester for the day. "Everyone was doing something active — sunbathing, rollerblading, bike riding. There was one pier with a volleyball court with sand. I kept asking my boyfriend, 'Are we really in New York City?'"

Lopez's reaction is proof of just how much things have changed along the river. For much of New York City's history, "the waterfront was where the industrial areas were," said Madelyn Wils, president and CEO of the Hudson River Park Trust. "Then in the 1960s, the port business went away and the waterfront areas became so derelict they were an embarrassment. If you saw pictures of what this looked like even 10 years ago, you'd say, 'How could anyone let that happen?'"

Looking at the ribbon of spotless walkways, plantings and creative play areas along the river today between Battery Park City in Lower Manhattan and 59th Street, it's hard to imagine what Wils is describing.

But when she and other New Yorkers began working to create the park in the late 1990s, one of her goals as a mother of three living in Lower Manhattan was simply to make more places where kids could play. In 1998, the city and state provided land for the park, and construction began in 2001.

Last year's opening of Pier 25 in Tribeca, now one of the park's most popular areas with mini-golf and volleyball, was a crowning achievement.

There are still small sections along the water awaiting redevelopment — a pound for towed cars, a facility for Sanitation Department trucks — but the walkways and bike path are uninterrupted. (Wils says the park has "more bikes on the bike paths than anywhere else in the country — 6 million a year.") Between playgrounds, lawns, sports facilities, boating options and other amenities, the park's attractions number in the dozens.

"There are so many different boating opportunities in the park now," said Nancy Brous, metropolitan region director for the Hudson River Watertrail. Many of the programs are run by volunteers to educate New Yorkers who may never have been in a kayak or out on the river before, Brous said, but the walk-up kayaking programs also get "a lot of out-of-town visitors. This is something that's really going to be driving the tourist trade as time goes on and more people seek it out."

Another aspect of the recreational boating programs is teaching the public about the river. It's a tidal estuary, so the currents are strong, and the water can be murky as the tidal flow stirs up silt. "It's not crystal clear and you can't see that deep into it, but it's not pollution," Brous said. "People are very surprised when they learn about the water quality. Just by the birds you can tell it's clean — they're out there and they're catching fish." Hudson River Park is also home to historic vessels that can be toured; public art like the AIDS memorial at 11th Street; yoga and other fitness programs; concerts, walks and talks, including a Sunday morning nature tour where participants learn about the park's 85 species of birds. Little wonder the park has started turning up in travel guides to New York City as an option for visitors looking for something to do besides shopping, theatre and museums.

Churchill offers true solace for Chantal Kreviazuk

Singer-songwriter loves taking time to unwind in the land of polar bears and dogsled runs

My favourite Canadian spot is Churchill, Man. I have been going there for years, for all sorts of reasons — ranging from personal trips, to program awareness building for Polar Bear International.

I have also gone to the region for a discovery voyage regarding my ancestors who used to run the land up at York Factory, the very origin of The Trade.

It is an adventure in the summer — you must have a rifle nearby, the polar bears roam about ... the belugas are feeding in the bay, it is beyond magical.

This remote place offers true solace ... I find myself totally of fline, and reconnected — to nature and humans ... everyone up there seems to be there for the same reasons ... it's the ultimate escape into "like-minds" or parallel intentions. Especially in Churchill in the winter, when it can get brutally cold, I feel like it's a true bonding experience with the other people up there.

The food is unexpectedly sophisticated and delicious, perhaps to completely blow away the common tourist, not sure ... but it's ridiculous.

Putting hot rocks in your mitts and boots, sitting by the fire with hot chocolate after a dogsled run ... or hanging on the tundra buggy for hours on end watching the polar bears in the behaviour patterns ... it is beyond any other experience I have had.

Every time I go, I truly feel like it's the first time back.

To São Paulo, Brazil's 19 million plus residents, home is a sprawling concrete jungle where street art drips from skyscraper façades onto busy sidewalks, traffic is the rhythm of life and multi-ethnic enclaves — among them Italian, Japanese and Middle-Eastern — contribute to a rich cultural identity that is uniquely paulistano. And food is no exception. Because this melting pot isn't situated on the coast, there's a local saying that the city's "beaches" — or main attractions — are its restaurants. From high-end eateries to low-key luncheonettes, Metro gives you a taste of the culinary capital's real surf and turf.

Hip hotspots

Mani's Helena Rizzo gives molecular gastronomy a sense of humour. Centerpieces of paper-thin Parmesan lollipops start the conversation. The artistry of the entrées to come is foretold in a trio of playful tapas: transparent tomato soup in a shot-glass, fois gras encased in port wine jelly like a maraschino cherry and sliced roast beef atop a delicate potato chip. Rizzo's sous-vide "perfect egg" lives up to it's name. For dessert, guava sorbet and cheese flan on a drizzling of dulce de leche will render you speechless. manimanio-ca.com.br

Lebanese café Tenda do Nilo is the diamond in the rough with just a handful of bistro tables. All in jest, owners Xmune and Olinda Isper won't let you sample humus or mhamara, a divine red pepper spread, until you're taught the proper way to rip and dip a pita. Quickly devour their fatte — a hash of beef, chickpeas, curd and toasted-nuts — while shreds of flatbread baked in are still crisp. Conceived in the Middle East but born in Brazil, the Ispers' semolina cake with cream, pistachios, orange flower and honey called "1001 Nights" is a legend it its own right. www.tendadonilo.com.br

Fine dining

D.O.M. is not simply a restaurant — the world's 7th best, according to San Pellegrino — but an erotic experience. Succumb to the ultimate aphrodisiac: chef Alex Atala's orgasmic brioche-crusted oyster with tapioca and salmon roe pearls. Other dishes evoke childlike curiosity, including toasted black rice resembling the coveted bits at the bottom of a saucepan and an elastic aligot, served like pulling taffy. Equally seductive and infallible are the sommelier's wine pairings. But Atala perfects perfection by re-purposing native ingredients like hearts of palm and pripioca, a fragrant Amazonian root. Sustainability is a standard, not a buzzword. domrestaurante.com.br

Get inspired by Asian flavours of bok choy and oyster mushrooms

The combined flavours of bok choy, mushrooms and this sesame sauce is outstanding.

I use whole oyster mushrooms for appearance as well as texture. Feel free to substitute other mushrooms, but it is best to slice them in large pieces.

I love to serve this alongside a fish or chicken dish.

1. Combine the soy sauce, sesame oil, oyster sauce, sugar, garlic, ginger and chili sauce in a small bowl and set aside.

2. Lightly coat a large, non-stick skillet with cooking spray, add the oil and set over medium-high heat. Add the mushrooms and sauté for 5 minutes or until tender. Add the sauce and cook for 2 minutes, until slightly thickened.

3. Place a shallow layer of water in a large saucepan and bring to a boil. Place the bok choy in the saucepan, cover and cook for 2 minutes or just until it is bright green.

4. Drain well and place on a serving dish. Top with the sautéed mushrooms and sesame sauce, sprinkle with sesame seeds and serve immediately. ROSE REISMAN'S FAMILY FAVORITES (WHITECAP BOOKS)

Ingredients

Sesame Sauce

- 1 tbsp low-sodium soy sauce
- 2 tsp sesame oil
- 1 1/2 tsp oyster sauce
- 1 tbsp brown sugar
- 1 tsp finely chopped garlic
- 1 tsp finely chopped ginger

- 1 tsp hot chili sauce

In a blender, combine coconut milk, margarita frozen concentrate and rum, if using; add ice cubes. Pulse until blended and frothy, about one minute. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ BACARDI MIXERS, RUM

Asian Slaw. Teriyaki sauce nicely dresses up this crunchy side dish

This crunchy vegetable mix of broccoli and cauliflower hearts, red cabbage and carrots gets an Asian twist with a tofu teriyaki sauce. The slaw would be a good side to grilled meat or fish.

1. In a large bowl, place vegetable mix and add yellow pepper. Add tofu, along with oil and vinegar, and mix well.

2. Let mixture sit for 1 hour or overnight in refrigerator. Sprinkle with sesame seeds before serving.

THE CANADIAN PRESS/SUNRISE STIR-FRY TOFU N' SAUCE

Ingredients

- 1 pkg (350 g/12 oz) vegetable mix (broccoli, cauliflower, red cabbage, carrots)
- 1 sweet yellow pepper, sliced thinly
- 1 pkg (250 g/8 oz) stir-fry tofu cubes with teriyaki sauce
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) sesame oil
- 45 ml (3 tbsp) rice vinegar
- Sesame seeds, for garnish

Chinese barbecue pork, or "char siu" in Cantonese, is a standard item found in every Chinese deli and restaurant. Not so traditional is one family's rather unique way of making it — with paper clips.

And the credit goes to uncle, Kin Woo. When he was a college student, he wanted to experiment with making traditional char siu. He says that "in the old days" in China, people would cook the pork in a clay or brick oven with a wood or charcoal fire underneath.

There were bars inside the oven with metal hooks that held the meat over the heat.

So one day, as family lore has it, he started fooling around with a paper clip. When he bent both ends into an S-shape, he discovered the perfect hook. And so the paper clips have been a trademark of his char siu for more than 30 years.

Ingredients

- 3- to 4-lb pork shoulder butt roast
- 8.5-oz jar hoisin sauce
- 1 cup white wine
- 1/3 cup of sugar
- 1 tbsp hot sauce
- 2 tsp kosher salt
- 24 large paper clips

Paper Clip Pork: One family's take on a Chinese BBQ staple

This recipe serves six. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. Cut pork lengthwise into 6 thick slabs. Cut each slab into 4 strips. Set aside.

2. In bowl, combine hoisin, wine, sugar, hot sauce and salt. Mix well until the sugar has dissolved. Add sliced pork and mix to ensure all of the meat is evenly coated. Cover and refrigerate for at least 24 hours.

3. When ready to cook, set one oven rack at the highest point. Remove the remaining racks.

Heat the oven to 400 F.

4. Remove pork from refrigerator. Bend each paper clip, opening it to create a double-sided hook that resembles an S. One at a time, thread one side of a paper clip hook through one of the narrow ends of each strip of meat. If you hold one up by the paper clip, the meat should hang down vertically.

5. Open oven and, using oven mitt, pull rack forward. Set a rimmed baking sheet lined with foil under it (it will rest on the door for the moment).

6. One at a time, use paper clips to hook pork onto the oven rack so they hang down from rack's underside. When all meat is hung, push rack and rimmed baking sheet into the oven. Roast 45 minutes. When meat is cooked, carefully unhook and remove paper clips before serving.

Students, don't despair about debt

Getting in the red, without turning red.

Why education pays but BMWs don't

JELEEN YU
TalentEgg.ca

Let's face it. Debt happens. It's a fact of life that almost all of us will need a little financial help at one point or another, whether it's for our home, car, livelihood, education — even our groceries.

Debt is an inevitable circumstance of life, and, for the most part, it's categorically evil.

But here's the kicker: Debt isn't always such a bad thing.

The basics

Ever heard of good debt?

Yes, it's an oxymoron, strange and it seems mythical at best, but believe it or not there are some things out there worth owing money for.

Here's what's on the "good" list:

- Your home
- Your own business

- Your education

These are otherwise known as things that will increase in value over time and give you the best bang for your borrowed buck.

Because you're borrowing to finance things that won't lose their value (and will actually earn you money in the long-run), this kind of debt is considered good and justifiable.

Bad debt, on the other hand, is money borrowed for things that will depreciate in value over time, sometimes even instantly (think: as soon as you leave the store!).

Consumable goods like clothes, cars, video games and flat-screen TVs are expendables, as are pricey out-of-town trips you can't afford.

Left unmanaged, this kind of debt could leave you facing years — even decades

And the worst "bad" debt you can make? Credit card debt, since it usually carries the highest interest rates and the most onerous payback schedules out there.

Check before cheque

Do your research

- It's important to note that the guidelines for a Canada Student Loan (CSL) vary from province to province, and the amount each student is granted depends on a lot of different factors.
- Doing your due diligence by visiting the National Student Loans Service Center's (NSLSC) website and CanLearn will help, as will considering other loan options like a low-interest line of credit from your local bank.

government, should you file your taxes properly," says anonymous Vancouver-based finance blogger Youngandthrifty, whose eponymous site (youngandthrifty.ca) aims to encourage better financial health among young Canadians.

In other words, government-backed student loans not only increase your future earning potential, they also give you a tax credit on the interest portion of the amount paid on your loan each year.

Balance summer fun and summer funds

To the beach or the bank? How to save the money you make at your summer job

SAMANTHA SIM
TalentEgg.ca

For students, summer is a time to kick back, relax and enjoy the few months they don't have to study.

But as the temperature rises so does the spending on social activities, which can eat away at money saved for the upcoming school year. So what can students do to help better balance their saving and spending this summer?

TD Canada Trust spokesperson Michelle Snow, group product manager for Everyday Banking, says the biggest financial mistake she sees students make is a complete lack of planning.

"A lot of times it's just a complete lack of money-management altogether," she says. "They just live life as it goes by and don't plan."

Snow recommends three steps students should follow when managing their money this summer:

Plan Students should plan for their expected expenses (school, living costs and social life) and revenues (summer job, scholarships/bursaries, loans and parents). "Remember to pay yourself first," says Snow. "TD has a pre-authorized transfer service (PTS) that automatically moves a pre-set amount from your chequing to savings each time you're paid."

Track It's important for students to keep track of how much and what they're spending their money on, especially if you go over budget.

Adjust "Remember that life is fluid and full of changes," says Snow. "Extra expenses and/or extra revenue streams can pop up. It's important to take this money into account and determine the best way to allocate it."

University of Waterloo life science student Jaynell Rosario worked part-time at a doctor's office during the day and as a soccer referee at night last summer. She says the best way she managed her money was immediately separating her paycheque into savings and spending the minute she was paid.

"When you get paid, divide

Tracking your toonies

Early childhood education student Patricia Alba on writing it all down:

- Alba advises students to keep an updated spreadsheet with a running total so spending can be easily tracked. There are also free online and mobile tools that allow you to track your spending, such as Mint.com.
- "Make a spreadsheet and remember to keep all of your receipts," she says. "This will definitely keep you organized and on top of your spending."

Academic advice

"Still have fun, but save most of (your money) because when the school year comes around you'll regret your summer overspending."

Jaynell Rosario, Student

withdrawal is made. She says these can be helpful proactive tools for students to keep on top of managing their money.

Making her summer budget planning a family affair is what Ryerson University early childhood education student Patricia Alba found helpful in keeping on top of her spending.

"I sat down with my parents and laid out how much tuition, books and transportation would cost, plus spending money to hang out with friends," she says. "It helped to have that discussion with them and get their feedback."

The paralegal program at Algonquin Careers Academy is accredited by LSUC. The objective of this program is to provide both theoretical and "hands-on" training in the key areas of paralegal work and to ensure the student is prepared to successfully undertake the Law Society's licensing exam.

The need for well-trained, competent legal professionals has never been greater. Paralegals may find employment in a wide variety of workplaces, including:

- Government (Federal, Provincial, Municipal)
- Advocacy agencies
- As a Self-Employed Paralegal
- Law and Paralegal Firms
- Courts (Federal and Provincial)
- Legal Clinics

Splitting cash a sticking point as NHL labour talks resume

Hockey. Negotiations continue with current bargaining agreement set to expire Sept. 15

The NHL and the NHL Players' Association are set to resume labour talks on Wednesday at the league offices in New York. Total revenue of the league's operations is the biggest sticking point right now, and it's an important one.

The players like their cut right now. The owners don't.

The two sides met last Friday in another round of negotiations for a new collective bargaining agreement.

There were multiple reports coming out of the last round of talks that the owners' offer included players' hockey-related revenues getting slashed from 57 per cent to 46 per cent. It also was reported players would be forced to wait 10 years before becoming unrestricted free agents and contracts would be limited to five years — a major change considering Zach Parise and Ryan Suter decided to sign matching 13-year, $98-million US contracts with the Minnesota Wild.

NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr and NHL deputy commissioner Bill Daly are among those meeting Wednesday. The two sides have regularly met since opening talks June 29.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said after Friday's session, "We've got a lot of work to do in a relatively short period of time."

Fehr said he didn't know what kind of short time frame Bettman was talking about.

"The optimum would be to get a deal done as soon as you could," Fehr said, adding he viewed a strike as a "last resort."

"What a last resort means is you bargain in good faith, you do everything you can, you listen carefully to what the other side says, you make counter-proposals when you can, where you believe it's consistent with the kind of contract you believe is appropriate, and you keep at it until you get an agreement," he said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Andruw Jones of the New York Yankees hits a three-run homer against the Toronto Blue Jays Tuesday in New York. The Jays' Jose Bautista is on the 15-day disabled but was relieved to learn there's no structural damage in his ailing left wrist. But since his eight-stroke win at the U.S. Open, McIlroy hasn't been much of a factor in the majors. # Aim getting better with age

Soccer. Canada's captain Sinclair developed her game while keeping up with big brother

Whenever Mike Sinclair drives by the old house in Burnaby, B.C., he can't help but marvel at the fact it's still standing.

"It took a beating," Sinclair says with a laugh. "I don't know how it's still upright. But I guess that's what you get when you get two really competitive kids around the same age."

Those two kids were Mike and younger sister Christine, who would leave countless broken windows and scuffed walls in her wake en route to becoming Canada's finest women's soccer player.

"Oh God, our windows, our next-door neighbours' windows, the windows of our neighbours two houses down," he said. "We've broken more things."

The concrete basement floor of their three-bedroom house provided the perfect venue for everything from roller-hockey to golf to soccer.

Fast forward a couple of decades and Christine Sinclair's aim has definitely improved. The 29-year-old is Canada's leading goal-scorer and has the third-most international goals in women's soccer history, trailing Americans Mia Hamm and Abby Wambach.

She'll lead a squad that will be playing for a medal on sport's grandest stage — the No. 7 Canadians will open the London Olympic Games against third-ranked Japan on July 25.

Trying to keep up with her older brother on the streets and playgrounds over the years built a toughness in Sinclair that was well on display last summer, when the striker scored on a beautiful bending free kick against Germany at the women's World Cup moments after her nose was shattered. Canadian goalkeeper Erin McLeod said it looked "like a zigzag."

Her goal was the lone bright spot at an otherwise disastrous World Cup that saw the Canadians knocked out after the preliminary round without a win.

But Sinclair said spirits are high heading into London. The team hired Englishman John Herdman as head coach in the fall and went on to beat Brazil to win the Pan American Games in October.

With 12 returnees from the Beijing Olympic team, Sinclair said Canada will field a squad that is wiser from its experiences in China.

"It was the first time our soccer team had qualified, and none of us had been there before and we were all inexperienced," Sinclair said. "The Olympics can be overwhelm-

Basketball. London likely last hurrah for Canadian women's captain Gabriele

Every morning for the past several years, Teresa Gabriele has crawled out of bed in pitch darkness to stock bread.

The alarm rings at 3:45 a.m. and she's in her first store in Abbotsford, B.C., by 4:30, when most people are still fast asleep.

Not the most glamorous work for Canada's women's basketball captain, but her job with her family's bread business has allowed her to pursue her Olympic dreams — and her appearance in London will be the punctuation mark on an illustrious career.

The 32-year-old point guard

Teresa Gabriele TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

from Mission, B.C., doesn't see her work as a sacrifice and scoffs at any suggestion she's put her life on hold.

"This is my dream and what I love to do, so this is what I'm doing right now," Gabriele said after a practice Tuesday at the Air Canada Centre in Toronto.

Gabriele has been the mainstay of Canada's women's team for more than a decade, and is the only remaining player from the 2000 Sydney Games, the last time a Canadian basketball team has stepped onto sport's biggest stage.

"I'm thinking of retiring after this, so it's a storybook ending for me," Gabriele said. "I started my career very early with an Olympics and then to be able to end it with an Olympics, it's awesome."

The Canadians qualified for the Games at the 11th hour, beating Japan in a must-win game in a last-chance qualifier on Canada Day to earn the final berth.

"We were just telling everybody we wanted to qualify on Canada Day," Gabriele laughed about their nail-biting run through qualifying.

Engines

The ES 350's powertrain is straightforward, consisting of a 268-horsepower 3.5-litre V6 accompanied by a six-speed automatic transmission that carries over virtually unchanged from the 2012 edition.

But, for 2013 it doesn't end there. A new ES 300h hybrid features a 156-horsepower 2.5-litre four-cylinder gas engine that combines with a 141-horsepower electric motor to generate 200 net horsepower. Both function through a continuously variable transmission.

The hybrid borrows its powertrain from the Toyota Camry hybrid and represents a natural extension of the ES brand, especially since the recent demise of the Toyota-Prius-based HS 250h.

2013 Lexus ES 350/ES 300h

- Type. Four-door, front-wheel-drive midsize entry-luxury sedan.
- Engines (hp): 3.5-litre DOHC V6 (268); 2.5-litre DOHC 4 with electric motor (200, net).
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 10.7/7.0 (3.5).
- Base Price: $44,000 (est.)

Interior

Other than the primary tach and speedometer gauges, the dashboard's control centre is a busy spot, with numerous minute knobs and buttons handling ventilation, audio and communications tasks. Fortunately, the console-mounted Remote Touch Interface can manipulate much of these systems in a relatively uncomplicated manner.

Base content

Being in the luxury realm, the ES 350 starts out with considerable standard equipment including power moonroof, 10-way adjustable power front seats, backup monitor, push-button start and an eight-speaker audio system. There's also a Drive Mode selector with Normal, Eco, or Sport settings for the powertrain and steering system.

Review. It's about time the world regarded the ES as a real Lexus

MALCOLM GUNN
Wheelbase Media

More style and substance are features the 2013 Lexus ES 350 can brag about. However the Toyota-Camry-based sedan can now include superlative fuel economy to its bag of tricks in the form of the gasoline-electric ES 300h hybrid.

The ES has always enjoyed a sterling reputation with Lexus buyers as the fleet's go-to entry-luxury model, even though the sportier IS series is less expensive. But in this league, size counts for plenty and the longer, wider and roomier ES beats the pants off the IS in the space race.

For 2013, interior volume has been slightly increased due to the addition of about five centimetres between the front and rear wheels. That adjustment makes the ES more livable, especially for rear-seat riders, but it's the car's outward appearance that's bound to make it a lot more likeable. Lexus's new character-building corporate face features a prominent lower air intake that first appeared on the GS sedan, along with restyled headlights and shapelier hood. It's a look that will show up on the rest of the fleet in due course.

In addition, the backside has been reworked to give the sedan a bit more bustle. The physical adjustments add considerable sparkle to what had been a design that for years was unnecessarily understated.

With its luxurious cabin environment, stress-free engine performance and trouble-free reliability, the ES should continue to garner serious consideration from entry-luxury shoppers. Dial in an invigorated redesign plus a fuel-sipper option and more folks than ever will likely vote y-ES.

It might have a Lexus logo on the top of it, but the 268-horsepower 3.5-litre V6 is also used in the Toyota Camry. The new hybrid drivetrain is also from the Camry hybrid.

A look at the rear of the ES 350.

That's right, jack

If you tow a medium to large trailer, you know what a hassle it is to use cinder blocks or pieces of wood to get the trailer to sit at the desired height. Where do you put the blocks when they're not in use, anyway? Attaching the sturdy Flip Jack Foot from Fastway products would appear to eliminate that problem.

When secured to the trailer's tongue jack, it automatically drops down when the jack is extended, thereby adding up to six extra inches in length.

It also automatically tucks up out of the way when the trailer jack is retracted. The Flip Jack Foot is available for 2 and 2.25-inch tongue jacks for $50 US from the company at fastwaytrailer.com, which also shows a list of local dealers.

Sentimental value.
High-performance sports car spent two decades stashed away at Mazda head office

JUSTIN
drive@metronews.ca

In 1993, I was listening to Whoomp! (There It Is) on my Sony Walkman and playing Mortal Kombat on my Sega Genesis.

Getting my driver's licence was years away, but I had a poster of the 1993 Mazda RX-7 on the wall in my room, too.

That year, the RX-7 was being sold as Mazda's $45,000-plus flagship sports car. This machine is largely regarded as the highest-performing street-legal Mazda ever made. It's also the source of that "Zoom-Zoom" DNA present in Mazda's products to this day.

This was a special car for the Japanese automaker — and largely the reason that Mazda stashed one brand-new, bright yellow, un-modified unit away at their head office for two decades.

For a time, it was even parked in the front lobby —

The 1993 model produced 255 horsepower.

the same front lobby I walked into to pick up my first ever test-car (a Mazda MX-5) seven years ago. So, effectively, this particular yellow RX-7 watched from a few feet away as I started my career reviewing cars.

Recently, I had the rare chance to realize a childhood dream and spend a week driving this exact RX-7. Sentimental value? Very much.

A supercomputer-designed suspension, lightweight hollow sway-bars and four-wheel ABS brakes were advanced for their time. Ditto the sophisticated, sequential twin-turbo setup — which helped the 1.3-litre rotary engine generate 255 horsepower and 217 lb.-ft of torque.

Two turbochargers meant two boosts of power smoothly merging with one another — perceived by the driver as virtually lag-free torque from just beyond idle to just shy of the 7,500 r.p.m. redline. This is the sort of technical, mechanical wizardry that makes excited aspiring car fanatics salivate.

Rear-wheel drive and a five-speed manual were standard. All said, it was fast by standards of its day, and is still quick and potent 20 years later. At full rip, torsos are pressed into seatbacks as the persistent whistling of the turbochargers enters the cabin — which is sweet.

The rotary engine's compact size allowed it to be mounted behind the front axle, helping with a 50/50 weight balance. Handling response is instant, direct, and surprisingly heavy and locked-on despite the size of the car.

I couldn't bring myself to drive this classic aggressively, but the eagerness and agility can be felt at every touch of the wheel.

The cabin exemplifies pure '90s Japanese sports-car cockpit-ness. It's tight and snug and hopelessly short on storage, though a centre-mounted 8,000 r.p.m. tachometer and a centre console curved towards the driver create a truly personal space to take in the performance.

Practical? Hell no. But if I ever felt more like I was in a cockpit, I don't remember it.

Without the distractions of modern day gadgets and safety gear, RX-7's engineers could focus purely on the driving experience. This was a car from an era where focusing on the driving experience was a very big deal.

And now, even two decades later, it still drops the jaws of people half its age. And the jaws of folks like me who had a poster of it on their bedroom wall when they were a kid.

New record for motorcycles at Dover

Autopilot

AUTO PILOT
Mike Goetz
drive@metronews.ca

Are you superstitious? I think I'm regular-stitious. I walk under ladders, but never carrying a black cat. Motorcyclists seem to be incredibly non superstitious. They think that the most superstitious date on the calendar — Friday the 13th — is the absolute bomb.

It's been a tradition since 1981 to drive your motorcycle to the resort town of Port Dover, Ont., on the shores of Lake Erie, every Friday the 13th, regardless of which month it falls on.

Every year it gets bigger, even the years when the "Black Fridays" show up on cooler months. With the last Friday the 13th of 2012 happening in July, and hot weather on the forecast, many predicted that this would be the biggest turnout ever. And it was.

About 50,000 motorcycles and 150,000 people were the numbers I heard repeatedly. I didn't actually count all the bikes and on-lookers clogging the streets of Dover, because I was too busy getting heat stroke, or what I thought was heat stroke. Turns out I was instantly cured by an adult beverage and some pan-fried Perch at the Erie Beach Hotel. But suffice to say, you couldn't swing a stuffed animal, like say a cat, without hitting leather, chrome, or a large person with a bandana. So I didn't.

Funnily enough, our gang didn't arrive at Dover via bikes, or via cars. Our pal Kirby hosted us in nearby St. Williams, and dropped us off by boat.

Great fun but I wouldn't necessarily recommend the water route, as dock space on that day is super tight. But with so many people on the pier looking at every boat coming into the marina, I can now appreciate how Queen Elizabeth felt on her Jubilee tour down the Thames.

It was my first Friday the 13th at Port Dover. Here are a few impressions and observations of the day, from this rookie attendee.

Last Friday, the 13th that is, saw roughly 50,000 motorcycles invade the town of Port Dover, Ont. MIKE GOETZ/FOR METRO

• Very hot and humid, saved only by a slight breeze.

• Did I mention it was hot?

• A warm day meant a lot of skin was uncovered. As usual, this is good and bad.

• The vibe was awesome. All those bikes and all those people and all that heat and nobody was cranky or pushy.

• The cruiser crowd, which prefers leather and Harley Davidson motorcycles, are definitely the majority, but there was solid representation from all motorcycle genres — sport bikes, vintage, touring, standards, trikes, etc.

• Huge police presence. But they didn't seem to have much to do, other than direct traffic.

• Port-a-potties and hot sun? Not a good combination.

• Very well organized. Only bikes allowed into and out of town by one road, and under the control of those efficient and courteous police officers.

People arriving by car have to park way out of town, in a designated farmer's field, and then get shuttled by school bus.

• Hundreds of bikes rolling into, or out of town, en masse, makes for great mechanical theatre — lots of flashy visuals, amazing soundtrack.

Create your own two-wheel diaries with good planning

Be sure to check road conditions before you head out on your journey. NEWS CANADA

There's nothing like the beautiful Canadian summer landscape to inspire a motorcycle trip on the open road. Before you head out to make memories on a cross-country journey, consider the following safety tips from TD Insurance:

Plan ahead

Following the open road is no doubt appealing, but choosing your route ahead of time will ensure a safer ride. Plan your time and distance, so at the end of the day you have a comfortable place to eat and stay. Be sure to check road conditions in advance — paved roads are safer than dirt roads.

Gear up

Make sure you and your bike are in peak condition. You'll be riding for long periods of time, so core muscle strength and a top performing bike are important. Also, make sure you have the proper attire for venturing from coast to coast. Bright colours will increase your visibility to other motorists, and proper motorcycle riding gear will protect you from debris.

Rest accordingly

Traffic and weather may steer you off course and add stress to your travels, so remember to allow ample time to reach your destination. Take a break along the way — you'll have a more enjoyable trip if you stop to smell the roses.

Check your insurance

Before you embark on your adventure, check your motorcycle and travel medical insurance policies to avoid any unwanted surprises. Remember that your province's health insurance plan may not cover you on out-of-province excursions even within Canada. Speak with your insurance provider to ensure your policy will provide adequate coverage regardless of your travel plans.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20
Temptation will come knocking today. Do you answer the door and let it in or do you call on all your powers of self-control and ignore it? Only you can decide, but consider this: Is enjoying yourself really a sin?

Taurus

April 21 - May 21
You may find it hard to control your emotions today. Pluto, planet of extremes, will make you a bit touchy and maybe a bit jealous too. So, watch you don't go over the top and say something you'll later regret.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21
Someone you work with seems determined to find fault with everything you do and it's getting you down. All you can do is sit tight and wait for him or her to get fed up with his or her carping.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23
Close your ears to gossip because hardly any of what you hear today will be true. Someone is trying to poison your mind against a person you have known and trusted for years. Don't fall for it.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23
Steer clear of a feud that is none of your business. If you get involved, it will make it appear you have taken sides. Before you know it, you'll be involved in a war of words no one can win.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
The more others say you need to make changes, the more you must resist. This is not the right time to throw everything up in the air. That applies as much to your personal life as it does to your career.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Something you have grown used to over the years will go out of your life today but that's good because it has been taking up more time and space than it deserves. Make room for new things.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Don't be silly and make promises you might want to back out of later on. And don't use emotional blackmail to get what it is you most desire. What will you do if your bluff is called?

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Both at home and at work you should strive for a more relaxed and forgiving attitude today — not because others deserve to be forgiven but because it will be you who suffers most if you get uptight.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
If things don't work out the way you plan today, chances are it's only a temporary setback. There's no need to panic. Have more patience with yourself and, most importantly, think long-term in everything you do.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb 19
No matter how much others may say you should loosen the purse strings, you know it's the wrong thing to do. Luxury items must stay off your shopping list until such time as you can afford them.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20
Passions will be running high today, so think before you act both at home and at work. If someone in your family does not like the friends you hang out with come right out and ask them why. SALLY BROMPTON
